

Tyne bar Sexual Harassment Policy

Tyne bar has a zero-tolerance approach to sexual harassment and will take all complaints of this nature extremely seriously. The purpose of this policy is to support a working environment and venue culture in which sexual harassment is unacceptable. Should you experience or witness any behaviour that you feel amounts to sexual harassment either towards yourself or another member of staff we strongly encourage you to report it to manager Hollie Carr, Assistant manager Dave Bulman or Supervisor Rob Law as soon as you can.

What constitutes sexual harassment?

Sexual harassment is a form of sex discrimination. It takes place when someone is subjected to unwelcome and unwanted sexual behaviour or other conduct related to their gender.

Harassment is defined by law in the Equality Act 2010 as 'unwanted conduct related to a relevant protected characteristic, which has the purpose or effect of violating an individual's dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for that individual'. In the case of sexual harassment, the relevant protected characteristic is 'sex'.

Behaviour that constitutes sexual harassment includes:

- Unwelcome behaviour of a sexual nature, this may be either physical or verbal
- Inappropriate or suggestive remarks or verbal sexual advances
- Indecent comments, jokes or innuendos relating to a person's looks or private life
- Unwanted physical contact such as hugging, kissing or inappropriate touching
- Requests for sexual favours
- The display or circulation of pornography or indecent images.

Often, this kind of behaviour may be brushed off by the harasser as 'banter' or harmless flirting. It is important to remember that the impact the behaviour had is the most important factor, it is not so relevant whether the individual intended to cause offence, but rather that offence was caused by the conduct.

Witnessing and handling reports of sexual harassment of patrons

Tyne bar considers it our responsibility to intervene when sexual harassment happens in our premises. If you witness or are alerted to sexual harassment taking place between patrons or between patrons and staff, you should alert the shift supervisor or manager.

Interventions to challenge sexual harassment in our venue include:

- Watching/keeping an eye on the situation
- Speaking with target/victim of sexual harassment
- Speaking with perpetrator of sexual harassment
- Asking the perpetrator to leave the establishment
- Alerting door staff
- Calling the police

When should staff intervene?

All staff should be made aware through staff training and their participation in the Shout-Up venue staff training course, what responsibilities they have in dealing with sexual harassment situations that may arise.

Look out for potential warning signs, for example: whistling, sexual comments or catcalling, provocative looks (up and down the body), sexual gestures, asking for sexual favours or groups surrounding individuals.

It is Tyne bar policy for bar staff to step in and speak to both parties (perpetrator) and (victim). Staff are to make the perpetrator aware that it is not acceptable to behave in the above manner. If this behaviour continues then the perpetrator or perpetrators will be asked to leave immediately. If they refuse to leave then the police will be called. Staff should make management aware immediately after they have had to give a warning.

If staff members feel uncomfortable approaching customers behaving in a sexually inappropriate manner, they should take their concerns to management immediately so that the situation can be dealt with.

Procedure for reporting sexual harassment between staff

We understand that reporting sexual harassment can be intimidating, so we aim to make the process as clear and straightforward as possible.

If you choose to report the incident by speaking to Hollie or Dave it will only be treated as a formal complaint if you make it clear that this is the route you would like to take. We are happy to offer informal advice about the possible action and outcomes open to you and will not force you to take any action you do not feel comfortable with.

Where we believe a criminal offence has taken place, we will advise you to report the incident to the police. If we have serious concerns about your safety or the safety of others, Tyne bar has a duty to contact the police, but we will do our best to let you know before doing so. If your complaint is subject to an ongoing police enquiry, we will not investigate until the police investigation has run its course.

If we receive more than one complaint of a serious criminal nature; or where we are concerned that an allegation may form part of an ongoing pattern of behaviour that could put other party members or members of the public at risk; we reserve the right to report this matter to the appropriate authorities, including law enforcement. If we do need to do this, we will let you know.

If, after speaking to us, you decide to make a formal complaint; the process will be as follows:

- First, we will seek a written statement from you the complainant.
- Once we have your statement, and the statements of any witnesses you are able to provide, the respondent will be informed of the details of the complaint made against them. As part of this process, each party will be encouraged to provide any relevant evidence and names of witnesses that support their statement. This process will establish the matters of fact from both sides.
- The statements from the complainant, respondent and any witnesses will then be provided to the General Manager of Tyne bar.

Allegations raised regarding sexual harassment will be taken seriously and treated confidentially. Tyne bar gives an assurance that there will be no victimisation against any worker making a complaint under this policy or against staff who assist a colleague in making a complaint.
